Presskit | Foolik

Biography

Born and raised in Berlin, Germany, Foolik has over a decade experience in bringing his kinetic and bouncy sounds to global audiences. He is known as the karate kid chopping through the wood of worldwide dance floors at roughly 120-124 beats per minute. His punchy and beefy take on everything house and techno is highly appreciated by a dedicated raver following. Being a true Berliner, he drinks battery acid for breakfast and spits it out in musical form. Often making the hips of his crowds wobble and heave. His energising presence and in your face mentality has won over many crowds. His sound is adaptable and matches the place and time of the occasion. He plays a mix of propulsive deep house and tech-house. But there is always room for melody and groove. Since joining Sisyphos in 2012, he has made his mark in the scene and now professionally collects frequent flyer miles.

He loves to share the decks with his regular playing partners Pauli Pocket and Leon Licht. Ping ponging of each others energy to bring blissful moments to hordes of ravers. Meanwhile, he can be found working in the studio shaping his production skills. His new life as a studio tiger has been fruitful. With a split release on KaterMukke with Daniel Jaeger & Pauli Pocket. A modern slice of muscular tech-house that got amplifiers working overtime in clubs across Europe. The future will see more of his work being released.
